

Hello from AKASA!

Our purpose is to enable human health. We scale human intelligence with leading-edge AI and ML, so health systems can reduce operating costs and allocate resources where they matter most. We provide comprehensive automation and analytics for complex workflows in healthcare operations. We are building the future of healthcare with AI.

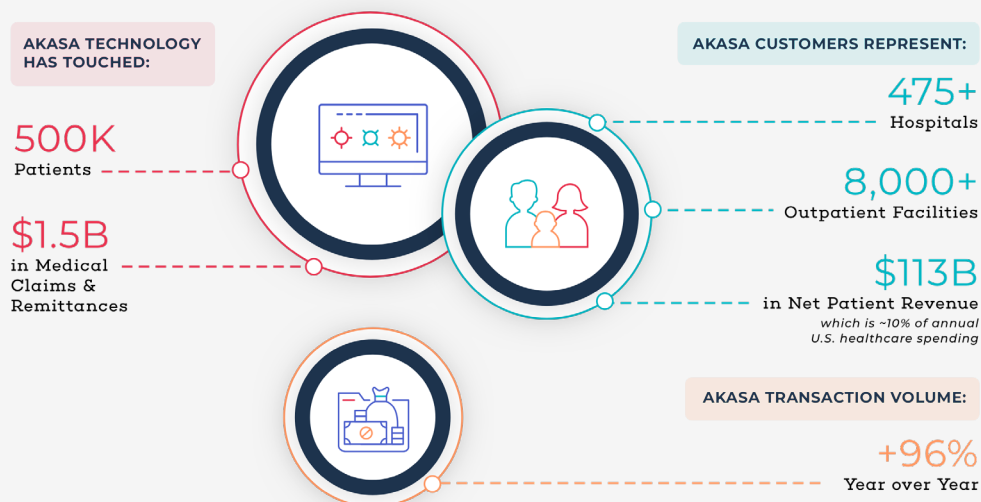

While AKASA already has more than 200 employees, we are still a high-growth startup that has received recognition for being best in class — both in terms of our approach and technology, as well as being a great place to work.

Our machine learning models and backend systems automate the most costly and time-consuming human tasks in healthcare. And our customers rely on us to be correct every time. The invisible plumbing of healthcare is extremely complex, but it has an immense impact on human health — and we're automating it bit by bit.

Hospitals across the country run our code in production every day. And this is just the beginning.
